Collections

The Don Bull sale continues. Email: corkscrew@bullworks.net. His outstanding collection was built over 40 years and has over 10,000 corkscrews. Bob Stahly has sold the bulk of his collection. Check eBay results for some outstanding prices realized. If anyone has a collection for sale please let me know.

Blue-Gray Beer Show February 10-14, 2016

With a new location at the Fairfax Marriott in Fair Oaks, Va. the show was once again an awesome place to be. Just tons of great breweriana and even some nice beer openers. Ray Johnson who runs the show revitalized it with a new location. The show was well attended and now that the word is out expect a really big turn out next year. Assuming the weather co-operates then this is one beer show you need to attend. The temperature never got above 20 degrees but all of the action is inside and the top two floors of the hotel are dedicated to beer collectors. I roomed with Larry Moter and he always has some great stuff for sale. Other JFO members in attendance included Mark Barren, Tim Bowers, John Fisher, and Ken Ostrow.

—2016 JFO Convention #38 April 20-24 Hampton Inn BWI (Linthicum MD) Baltimore MD—

Thank you to all who attended and made this a great JFO Convention. The hotel and staff were great except for a little hiccup Saturday evening. The brewery tour went very well Thursday afternoon. Most everyone found some great local attractions and restaurants. The Saturday night group dinner was good but had an interesting conclusion (see convention write-up). The meeting room was tight but we survived. It made for a cozy setup and hopefully in the future I can obtain a bigger space. Thank you to the Eblens, Lynns and St. Amands for alcohol donations. Marcia Eblen and Pat Stambaugh helped with obtaining groceries for the group. The Arbers brought cheese. Gary Latshaw was the "Ice Man". Last but not least the Atwoods and Deachman brought drink coolers. The weather for the most part co-operated but I can say it will be the last time Jazzy and Snazzy attend as traveling is not for them in their golden years. I know a lot of good openers exchanged hands and a lot of smiling members were glad they attended. Finally thank you to the lady members who contributed pictures, Darlene Atwood, Sandra Emme, Sharon Hinton, Mary Lynn and Theresa St. Amand. A special thank you to Pat Stanley for Jack-Of-All-Trades award. Thank you again to all who attended. PS, I must give out a last thank you to Stan Summers. Besides selling me his "leftover" openers he provided outstanding entertainment for everyone, especially the ladies. He may be 88 but he still has a sharp mind.

—2017 JFO Convention #39 April 19-23 Hampton Inn & Suites Chapel Hill NC—

After trying many Midwest hotel locations with no luck, I decided to return to Chapel Hill for 2017. The Hampton hotel sales person really wanted us to come back and it has only been three years and hopefully members will attend for some more Stanley hospitality. Pat promises more banana pudding and any member attending can browse and buy from my collection.

The Hampton will be undergoing complete renovations this fall. The room rate will be $99.00 and will be good three days before and after the convention. The reservation cutoff date is April 1st. The Stanleys (Pat) will again provide shuttle service to the airport. The meeting room at this Hampton is 1200 square feet (much larger than the 850 we had in Baltimore this year) and is the perfect size for our group.

As always please reserve a room first as we sold out in 2014. With the area's largest mall one mile away, three great Universities and at this time at least 30 micro breweries, the Research Triangle area has many attractions. Before I forget we will be making some trips back to the Q-Shack for some great local BBQ. As always BE THERE!!!

Trying To Get A Hotel For The JFO Convention

Memphis looked very promising but the airport hotel had multiple crime and infrastructure issues, guests were advised to stay inside at night and FedEx planes fly in and out all night. We tried Chattanooga but beer not allowed in the hospitality room. Next was Cincinnati with a downtown location being extra expensive and then a north side site wanted me to guarantee 100 rooms and if I did not have 100 I had to pay 90% room rate of the unfilled rooms. Never got responses from any hotels in Kansas City, Mo. and Louisville, Ky. Next was Sioux City, IA. The sales person was named Abby and when I told her we needed 100 room nights, she offered 50 and if we booked those would try to give us more if they had them. No way that would work and talking with her she kept telling me, "I don't mean to be crabby but this is our policy". So she was called "Crabby Abby". Then I tried Milwaukee and they said the beer had to be catered by them ($5-10 a bottle). That would bust our budget. Finally I was back in Cincinnati at the airport. Their meeting room was 1,000 square feet but the sales person kept telling me no way they could get 20 tables in the room (and they only had 12 at the property). At this point I said the heck with it and opted for Chapel Hill for next year. Not many Hamptons have a large meeting room and the ones that do are usually in a downtown location with a room rate higher than we like to pay. In the future we may have to go to 3 or 4 set locations and just rotate sites.

Check List for Hosting a JFO Convention (Requested by Possible Future Hosts)

A fun location, nice sleeping rooms, hospitality/show room, etc. are important factors for a successful convention. But, what really makes the convention is the people. You have to attend one before you can understand the depth of that statement.

For those involved in arranging the first three items and completing other tasks surrounding this annual event, a Check List follows:

Convention Dates

- Official Convention is Wed-Sat of selected week
- Avoid Easter Week
- If area frequented for Spring Breaks, avoid time frame if possible

Hotel

- Hampton Inns have been the most receptive to our Conventions in recent years
- Negotiate the room rate. Unless a major tourist area, $100/night
- Request that the room rate be good for 3 days before and after the Wed-Sat convention rates for single/double Room block usually for 20 rooms Wed, 30 for Thurs and Fri and 20 for Sat for total room nights of 100 (this may vary depending on location and feedback from members)
- There should be no penalty if room nights are not reached
- Room block should be comprised of half double standard/queen and half king beds
- Shuttle service from/to airport is preferred
- If no shuttle service, distance from airport should be 10-15 miles at the most
- Since proximity to airport is important, determine if airport noise is a problem in the hotel
- Find out if rooms have refrigerator and/or microwave so guests can be informed

Hospital Room

- Need minimum of 1000 sq ft
- Rectangular shaped room accommodates table set up better than square room
- Need 35 covered tables 6' x 18" and 2 round tables to seat 8 people each
- Need contract to specify that beverages including beer and snacks can be brought into the hospitality room by the club
- Refrigerator, microwave and sink helpful so find out if room has these available
- Negotiate hospitality room rate. $100/night has been the norm without any additional charges for set up, etc.
- Hospitality room rental should be from 7 am to midnight every night (Wednesday through Saturday)

Tours

Contact local collectors to see if interested in having members visit their home to see their collection. Discuss parking, number of people who can be in home at one time and where others can stay until they can enter home.

Beverages and Snacks

- Try to borrow 3 medium size ice chests with drain for beer, soda and water
- Local brew pub beer is always popular
- In recent conventions, more water than soda has been consumed
- In recent conventions, diet and caffeine free soda has been preferred
- Need containers to haul ice from vending machine area
- Cheetos, Large Virginia Peanuts, Cashews and Chocolate should be included in snacks (salty and sweet snacks good, but with more and more health concerns, think of healthy snacks)
- Covered containers for above snacks, small snack bowls, napkins, paper towels and cups should be provided along with spoons for nuts and chocolate (if something like M&Ms)

Name Tags (Badges) and Lanyards/Clips

Editor will supply these. Badge holders need to be certain brand that allows attendees to easily keep their room key card in holder too. Name tags are made in duplicate so name shows either way if badge holder flips.

Editor supplies lanyards, but if you can get local company to supply, that would be great.

Other Documents

Editor will supply other documents including:

- Room List Master Copy to be available in Hospitality Room and ability to print copies for distribution.
- Announcements/Maps
- Time of Auction and Check In of Items
- Driver Sign Up Sheets for Transportation to Events
- Maps to Events

Welcome Bag

Try to get bags donated. Some brew pubs may have bags. Shopping malls sometimes have bags and mall directories they will donate along with some little gifts from some of the stores in the mall.

List of Attendees and Date of Arrival

Contact local Chamber of Commerce to ask for brochures/information/maps. Make sure you get current information that includes events being held at time of convention. Sometimes information is published quarterly and current information not yet available if you collect too early.

Collect items such as coasters from local brewpubs

Menus from local restaurants – if you can not get enough for welcome bags, have several copies available in hospitality room

Convention Opener and Awards

Editor arranges these items but welcomes ideas

Advertising

Editor creates flyer for distribution

Take flyers to local antique stores/shows, brew pubs, etc.

Contact local newspapers and tv stations to see if interested in publishing article or filming for tv presentation

Soliticiation

Contact local brew pubs to ask for samples for hospitality room. This has to be done fairly early in year of convention as some will only commit so much in donations annually and quickly hit their limit with other events.

Summary

If you are the spouse of a member who is host/co-host of the convention, make your part fun!! Enjoy the deep satisfaction you will have by doing things to make the people in this wonderful group have a great time. I have so many happy memories from this annual event that I consider to be a family reunion.

Verne Vollrath Final Estate Auction May 17, 2016

The last of Verne's openers were consigned by the family to the George Auction Service where Verne had worked for many years. Several JFO members were in attendance including Tommy Campnell, Dave Cress and Darvin Stilwell. Dave filed the following report. Prices were generally low, but I only bought one lot with 6 JFO openers including the Telluride corkscrew (1985 Convention), all for $45. Most of the lots of 50 openers went for $100 or $110--one went for $140 (C's or E's). Some better brewery names on them--ones I hadn't heard of. The best lot of about 25 openers in a case went for $290 and one with about 20 A's went for $200. The better figurals sold in lots of 2, 3 and 4 ($20 to $70). Many figurals in bigger lots went for about $5 each. Five John Wright dogs went for $115. A big box of a couple hundred Lone Star opener bolos went for $125 (I bid it up to $120 and probably should have gone higher, they are $10-$20 openers). The K-1 openers went for: Pabst $55, Schlitz $55, Bud $50, and K-2 Jax for $150. Thank you Dave, the box of M-27 Lone Star bolo ties for $125 was a steal.

Mugs & More

In fact, Jay's collection of brewery mugs—both ceramic and glass mugs with pewter and porcelain lids—are both beautiful and astounding. In fact, his collection numbers about 490 unique and intriguing mugs, interestingly exhibited throughout his home. These drinking vessels, as much as anything in Jay's collection, speak to a bygone era in brewery advertising that ended with Prohibition.

But Jay did not stop at mugs. Far from it. He also has a spectacular array of openers, lithographs, signs, trays, and even brewery-branded pub tables and chairs. His basement "man cave," complete with a 1930s era bar obtained from a now-demolished bowling alley in Cicero, is a fitting home to much of his collection. It seems as if Jay both knows and relishes the details of every piece in his collection as he deftly guides a visitor through his Norm Jay might be able to teach Warren Buffett a thing or two about the art of the deal. He's put together quite few in his time, both during his long and successful career in sales, and in amassing an extraordinary collection of outstanding breweriana, artfully displayed in his comfortable Wheaton, IL home.

Although Jay's collection is broad and deep, he has approached collecting strategically, like a salesman carving out his own niche and recognizing the value of focus and specialization. "I purposely steered clear of ball knobs, enamel glasses and labels," he said, "because I had friends who were heavily into them and I really didn't want to compete. That's a reason I started collecting pre-Prohibition mugs: in part because they were rare and valuable, and {also because} I didn't see a lot of other guys collecting them."

To best display his vast array of mugs, Jay acquired some antique barbershop shaving mug racks. These beautiful wooden wall units were compartmentalized to hold personalized shaving mugs of each of the barber's patrons—much like the mug clubs at modern brewpubs.

personal museum. "I guess I should've been a history teacher," he said with a smile, "because I just love this old stuff."

Nashville Roots

It feels highly appropriate that a man who was born the same year Prohibition was repealed should have such a fine collection of promotional beer items—a collection that is now some 46 years old. And it all started a bit by chance.

"We were living in Nashville at that time," Jay recalled, "and I was traveling as a salesman for Johnson & Johnson. The son of one of my friends collected memorabilia from the old Gerst Brewery. He asked me to look out for those in my travels and I started to find them and pick them up for him. It wasn't long before I got bit by the collecting bug myself."

Indeed, Jay assembled his own collection of Gerst items, amassed from his time traveling. Several of his Gerst pieces are the only ones of their kind known.

Eventually, the Jay family moved back to Illinois, and he took a new sales job. This time his travels allowed him to indulge in a new passion: beer cans. He was actively collecting cans at the height of the 1970s can craze. "I'd go somewhere and bring back a six pack of full cans," he said. "Then I'd sell them empty. But those cans didn't empty themselves," he laughed. "It's a wonder that I still have my kidneys!"

A Notable Chicago Collection

As is the case with many can collectors, Jay's passion soon evolved into a greater interest in breweriana, and he continued collecting Gerst, and expanded into Chicago brewery items

(some of his favorites are from the Independent Brewing Company) and other high-quality pieces. "My philosophy has always been to buy the nicest stuff in the best condition that I can find," Jay said. When you experience this remarkable collection, you can see this approach has served him well.

Over time, Jay has become a well-known and respected statesman in the breweriana collecting hobby. Through shows and flea markets, he became friends with other avid Chicago-area collectors like Adolf Greinke, Bob Kay, Dave Lendy, and the late John Murray and Jim Shoulter. Jay served as an officer of NABA for many years—service highlighted by a 4-year term as president (1998-2002), following in the footsteps of predecessors Murray and Shoulter.

The black and white lithograph, which depicts the Sands Brewing Company, is the only one known. Just to the left foreground in the illustration of the brewery, note the landmark Chicago Water Tower (still standing in the heart of downtown Chicago). Famously, the Water Tower was the only area structure to survive the Great Chicago Fire (1871). This litho dates from the year before the fire.

One of the many rare and beautiful pieces Jay owns from Gerst Brewing Co. in Nashville: a 1904 calendar lithograph featuring a courting couple from the Victorian era.

This stunning self-framed tin is one of many in Jay's collection. It shows an unusual cock fighting scene that fits with the slogan, The Beer You Can Bet Your Money On. RIB: Rock Island Brewing. Rock Island, Illinois.

Thrill of the Hunt

Despite collecting for nearly half a century, time has not slowed Jay nor his interest. He continues to attend local shows and national conventions, and is an active member of ABA, ECBA, NABA, and BCCA. Most importantly, Jay enjoys the many friendships he has made through collecting and still thrives on the thrill of the hunt. His passion shows when he relates a story generated by the discovery of a rare, Pre-Pro tray in one of the many antique shops he haunts, this one in Indiana: "I had to be careful," he smiled. "I didn't want to show [the store's owner] how much I really wanted it."

Spoken like a man whose mind remains focused on crafting a deal. One look at Norm Jay's jaw-dropping array of antique brewery items leaves no doubt that this skill has served him well in carefully acquiring and curating a masterful collection.

A large self-farmed tin touts Topaz Beer as being "Good to the last drop." This pre-Pro sign, from Fortune Bros. Brewing Co., is the only one known.

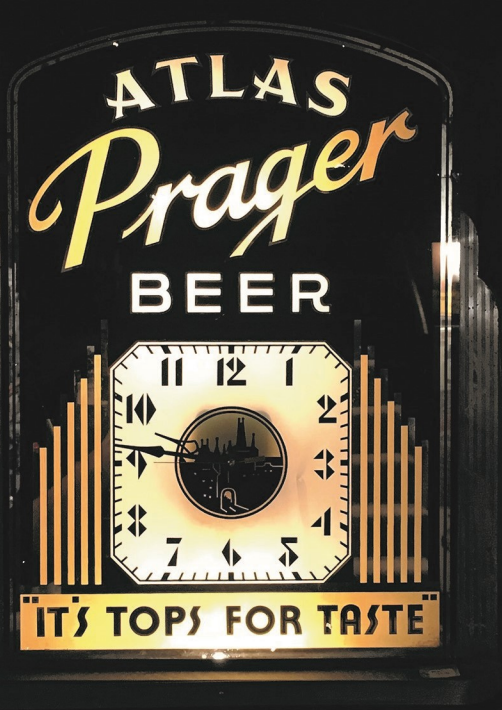

A colorful porcelain and metal flange sign advertising the "Cereal Beverage" that Edelweiss Brewing in Chicago made during Prohibition years.

Above: This 1930s reverse-paint-on-glass lighted clock back bar sign from Keeley Brewing Co. in Chicago keeps time "just right" on Jay's desk.

This large backlit Atlas Prager (Chicago) reverse-on-glass clock, resplendent in its art deco styling, greets visitors at the lower level of the Jay's museum-like home.

These Prima signs from the pre-Prohibition Independent Brewing Co. are just a few of the many items from Jay's favorite Chicago brewery.

A Tale of The TWO PINNEY Beer Beverage Distributing Companies In Salt Lake City, Utah by Dave Pinney (1)

My father; Kenneth Jeremy Pinney (Ken), worked as the manager for Jess C. Olsen Distributing Co. (1902-1934) selling candy, near beer (Bevo and Becco) and White Rock soda waters in the state of Utah. In 1934 he purchased the business and organized Pinney Beverage Company at 533 South 4th West, Salt Lake City, Utah. Since prohibition had just ended, the company added Becker's Best Beer, Uinta Club Beer and Budweiser Beer to the line.

The year 1934 was a banner year for Pinney Beverage Company. According to my mother the demand for beer was so great that the beer was loaded directly on trucks from the rail cars without going through the warehouse as had been customary in the past. In order to keep the kegs cold they had to rack them in the freezer room. Demand was also very high during World War II when beer was rationed. During the 1930's and 40's the company sponsored several sports teams and the baseball team developed into the heart of the Salt Lake City Bees in the professional AA League. Somewhere along the line Guss Becker turned down the Coca Cola franchise for the state of Utah. This apparently upset all of the Becker distributors in the state. Ken Pinney opened a second branch in Ogden in 1946 or so. Both his brother Earl and his father William David worked in the business as did Art Vier (Earl & Ken's brother in law).

Earl Pinney, Ken's brother, tried to blackmail Ken Pinney because Ken was doing some illegal things in order to get and keep customers (bars, restaurants, etc.). Then not satisfied with blackmail, Earl turned Ken in for tax evasion. When none of Earl's schemes worked to ruin his brother's business, Earl opened a business in direct competition in the late 1930s or early 1940s under the company name of Pinney Distributing Co. at 341 South 5th West, SLC Utah. His company sold Drewry's Ale, Blatz, Rainier, Hamm's, Tivoli and Lucky Lager Beers. I do not know what happened to this business, but it was around until the early to mid-1950s, Earl died in 1956.

This action, of course, caused lots of confusion with clients and the postal service.

Earl Pinney also opened a Becker's Beer Distributorship in San Bernardino, California.

My father, Kenneth Jeremy Pinney, was killed in an auto accident on April 26, 1950. My mother, Blanche, continued operating the business until 1955 when Budweiser decided that a woman could not operate a beer distributorship, despite the five years that she had run the business successfully since Ken's death. Budweiser gave the franchise to a man who was a friend of the regional manager for Budweiser and the franchise folded within a year. My mother sold the trucks and routes to Becker Products Co. and rented the warehouse to them until 1965 when Becker Products Co. went out of business. The old address was the distribution center for the Salt Lake Tribune Newspaper for a while and is now a moving & storage company.

More Pinney Utah family history:

On my mother's side of the family there were four Allgood sisters; Estella, Jane, Gertrude, Glenna. Estella married James Holman Waters, they had a son James Holman Waters. Glenna Allgood married William Earl Sutton and they had a son W. Ross Sutton. The Waters and Sutton families owned & ran the Hotel Newhouse in SLC from 1915 to 1969. The Hotel Newhouse was a posh hotel in its early days, but was eventually torn down and the location is now a parking lot. Jane Allgood married Charles Hancock and they had my mother Blanche Estelle Hancock.

On my father's side Thomas Evans Jeremy (Mormon pioneer) traveled to the Salt Lake Valley as a Captain of Ten in the George A. Smith/Dan Jones Company in 1849. He was set apart by George A. Smith in September of 1852 to serve a mission and, at the end of that mission to England, he traveled home with the Charles A. Harper Company as a Captain of the Welsh Ten in 1855. He was married to Elizabeth Waime Pettit. She gave birth to Sophia Jeremy. Sophia Jeremy then married William David Pinney, building Inspector in SLC. They had four children: Adelbert, Afton, Earl William Pinney and my father Kenneth Jeremy Pinney.

In 1930 Blanche Estelle Hancock married Kenneth Jeremy Pinney.

The “Little Boy Peeing” figural opener (JFO Type A-45)

From the eBay results an A-45-2 Centennial Brewing sold for $365.00. After seeing the pictures of the actual opener I am pretty sure it was jeweler engraved plus the town is Butte not Butte City. Bill Pattie sent in the listing in 1995. He had been told the the opener existed and had gotten an etching. He mentioned at the time that Centennial Brewing was a Pre-Pro brewery and this style opener is definitely Post-Pro. I went ahead and listed anyway and a couple of years later Bill got to actually see and hold the opener. He wrote me to say it was not legit but I left the listing in the Handbook. Fast forward to 2016 and an example of the A-45-2 is offered for sale. Comparing it to the other two known beer advertising A-45s, the etching is pretty shallow which makes it “home made” to me.

Gary Deachman listed the original A-45 for City Club beer. For 25 years there was only one example known. John Patton turned up one on eBay and then traded it to Ben Hoffman. Gary traded me his A-45 and I sold it to Pat Stambaugh since City Club is from Minnesota. In 2012 Ben traded me his A-45-1 City Club. When Gary traded me his A-45 I mentioned it to Bill Pattie. He bugged me many times to trade it to him as he said it was from Billings, Mt. If I did not mention Bill had a fabulous collection of Montana openers. I kept telling him Billings was not a town name the last name of the distributor as you can see below.

In 2009 Elvira McKenzie was selling her husband’s (another Bill) Colorado openers on eBay and offered an A-45-3 Griesedieck Bros. (which is from St. Louis) for sale. Jim Osborn won that bidding war for $325. This A-45 has the advertising on the front which makes perfect sense since the brewing company is pronounced “greasy dick”. Jim’s opener looks to be laser engraved but may have been a demo piece for the brewery.

You can see this is a very rare style to find with beer advertising. Most advertising on this style dates from the 1940s-1950s. You find it without advertising but when it advertises anything it usually starts out “If you gotta go, go” then either for or to somewhere. A neat figural opener but beware of the “jeweler engraved” examples.

Above: A-45-1 City Club with the standard “If you gotta go, go for” and then City Club, Shorty Billings, Distributor. Wonder where Shorty Billings worked?

Above: A-45-2 with very hard to read “Centennial Brewing Co. Butte City, Mt.” Butte City does not exist. I own a few jeweler engraved openers with all having a very shallow etching.

Right: A-45-3 Griesedieck Bros. St. Louis which looks to be some kind if laser engraving. It is great advertising for this style.

I-7 Beer Openers: Produced as Keglined & Vaughan by Chris Solari

I've been collecting beer cans since 1977 and only got interested in openers later on, and even then really only one specific type: the I-7. I got my first one in 1988 when a college buddy gave me a generic "Keglined" that had been sitting unused in his parents' kitchen junk-drawer. Soon after that I acquired a Krueger and thought it was somewhat ironic because here's an implement specifically designed for opening beer cans, yet the wording on it: "Enjoy Krueger on draught. Where not available, drink it from Keglined cans", definitely gave second billing to those first new beer cans.

For the next 10 years those were the only 2 I-7s I had, until 1998 when I found a Genesee at the Raleigh Flea Market. When I realized it had that same big Keglined logo on it, the lightbulb in my head finally went off and I started to wonder "How many more of these big openers are there??" At that time I had no idea how many there might be, but I knew that potentially there could be one for every brand of beer that was ever sold in opening instruction cans so I started looking for them everywhere: antique stores, flea markets, beer can shows, and that amazing new source of all things for sale called eBay.

As my small collection grew I started noticing that many of the easier ones like Pabst, Ballantine, and Coors were made by the American Can Company (the same company that marketed the first beer cans ever sold to the public), but there were also other I-7s from more obscure brands like Stroud, Frederick Bros., or Nu-Globe and those openers were produced by a company from Chicago called "Vaughan". At first there didn't seem to be any common ground between the 2 companies, but then around 2003 I found out that wasn't true. Waldorf Beer from Ohio advertised on both kinds of I-7s: Keglined and Vaughan! Now another lightbulb went off!! How many of these crossover I-7s might be out there? Well, as it turns out, not many. By 2006 I'd found only 2 more (Pabst and Fox Deluxe), for a grand total of just 3 that were made both ways...

...until 10 years later in 2016 when I discovered that there's a 4th: Meister Brau from Chicago was also made as a Vaughan I-7!

If you know of any others that come both ways, please share that information with the club. Likewise, if you have any of these I-7s available for sale or trade, please let me know: Balboa (CA), Edel Brau (NY), Roger Williams (RI), and Union Cream Ale (RI). Chris Solari PO Box 2 Swepsonville, NC 27359 or Email: mph814@hotmail.com

CARTA BLANCA BY JOHN EBLEN

An American Adjunct Lager style beer brewed by Cervecería Cuauhtémoc Moctezuma, in Monterrey (Nuevo León), Mexico was Cervecería Cuauhtémoc's brewery's first premium beer, first marketed in 1890, and is technically a pilsner. The name means "white card" in Spanish, which at the time was given to people as a sign of respect. CARTA BLANCA was successful when it debuted at Chicago's Columbian Expo of 1893. Since then, the beer has won a number of other awards. Still being brewed today.

BOTTLE OPENER FACTS:

- Standard style (O-505) opener produced in the 1925-1929 timeframe by Brown Mfg. Company, Newport News, Va. Made in the USA.
- First beer advertising brand (foreign or American) to be placed on a Brown Mfg. opener.
- First and last time CARTA BLANCA brand name appeared on a Brown Mfg. opener.
- Only beer advertising brand to be placed on the "Standard" style opener. The other known brand names used on this style opener were either soda or spring water products.
- This is the only intact example of a Brown Mfg. CARTA BLANCA (O-505-Mex) wall mounted bottle opener known to exist today.

When Brown Mfg. produced this CARTA BLANCA opener in the mid 1920's, they were exported directly to the brewery in Monterrey, Mexico. None were distributed here in the States. The Brown Factory listed only 28 of them left in house, on an inventory sheet, dated December 31, 1944. This opener was recently discovered under layers of paint in a old vacant closed up cantina in Puebla, Mexico. It was restored back to its best possible original condition as it once looked some 90 years ago.

The Complete Slide-Out Opener List (1)

Not many collectors attempt to collect all slide-out openers but having a somewhat master list that came from Art Johnson of Mendon, Mass. and then discussing the list with Dick Strisofsky, a master list has been generated. Each style, brand and color variation or given a separate listing. At the current time the count is 193 total slide-outs and if you have any not on the list please let me know.

The actual list is maintained in Excel and I can send to anyone who wants that format. JFO types and numbers are used. M-3 is the regular size opener with beer number openers being 1-99 and then non-beer are numbered 101-199. The same for M-73 sliders with corkscrews, beer ones are 1-99 and non-beer 101-199. Style M-140 is the half as thick and twice as wide as an M-3. Only one known beer advertising M-140 is known with Schlitz advertising. The non-beer ones are for the 1933 Chicago World's Fair with one non-advertising opener in the style also known. Finally the extra long M-73 is only known with advertising for The Electro-Chemical Engraving Company (the maker of these openers). It was assigned style number M-999.

Two types of cap lifter come with the slide-out openers, a "REG" or "Regular" lift opener and then a "OTT" or "Over-The-Top" cap lifter. Many discussions are made discerning black and blue colored sliders. Depending on light the two colors can be hard to tell apart. Two are questionable but I left in the M-3-12 German in Black and the M-3-13 Philadelphia in Black. I have only seen Red as the color for these two sliders but they could exist in black. Beware of sliders that have worn down to the brass (nice examples show full nickel plating) as they are possibly repainted an unknown color.

Please send any additions or corrections to me to keep the listed updated. John

San Jose man uses centuries-old techniques to forge tabletop bottle openers By Anne Gelhaus, agelhaus@community-newspapers.com (Sent In By John Eblen) (1)

David Sowards-Emmerd loves beer. He also enjoys forging utilitarian fine art on the blacksmithing gear he has set up in the garage of his Cambrian area home.

So it makes a certain sense that he would move from crafting knives to making high-end bottle openers using centuries-old Damascus steel forging techniques. "I always wanted to make knives," he says, but "most forged knives are collector's items; people don't use them."

Not so the bottle openers, which Sowards-Emmerd road-tested extensively to come up with the most functional design. He started out making hook-style openers but says they're impractical to carry in your pocket since they hook on other things. Now he primarily crafts tabletop models.

His home blacksmithing shop is a practical mix of modern equipment and old-school tools, many of which he made himself. His interest in forging steel sprung as an extension of his other hobby--welding--and he learned the basics through classes at the California Blacksmith Association in Santa Cruz.

"I think I was the first person doing lots of Damascus in the class," he says. The process for forging Damascus steel dates back to the third century. Many of the methods have been lost over time, and Sowards-Emmerd points out they wouldn't be practical nowadays anyway, given advancements in equipment and materials. "All that stuff died with the masters," he says. "There's a lot of interest in uncovering their secrets."

While those secrets remain largely buried, Sowards-Emmerd's finished pieces have the whorled and banded patterns commonly associated with Damascus steel forging. To achieve this look, he starts by welding together stacks of steel bars to create billets.

"You decide what the stack-up is," he says, adding that he generally starts with 15 to 25 layers and builds up to as many as 500, twisting the hot steel to create the desired pattern.

He shapes the bottle openers further on a cast-iron anvil that weighs more than 200 pounds, hammering steel flat and punching holes as necessary, then grinds the openers' blades.

While this process gives him a lot of control over the look of a finished piece, Sowards-Emmerd says, "It's nice when things come out as you meant them to.

"I like the whole process except for grinding," he adds. "And I like fire." Good thing, since forging the billets takes 45 to 60 minutes at 1,900 to 2,000 degrees.

"I set it as hot as it'll go," he says of his forge.

Sowards-Emmerd initially gave away his openers to friends and family, but he realized there was a potential market for them among fellow beer aficionados. His first sale was to someone who saw him use one of his openers in a bar.

Now he and his wife Rebecca sell his wares online via an Etsy shop called Drunken Marmot Forge (a nod to the rodents that chew through vehicles' radiator hoses to quaff antifreeze). The openers are priced from $60 to $150.

In addition to beer and fire, Sowards-Emmerd likes dogs--in particular, Thor, a 2-year-old yellow lab who keeps him company when he's working in his garage forge. To that end, he's donating a couple openers to Pints for Pups, an April 16 benefit for the Silicon Valley Pet Project to be held at Strike Brewing Company.

Meantime, he's using his openers to crack brews for neighbors who stop by to check out his blacksmithing setup.

Micro Breweries Do Not Always Last

Big Boss Brewing of Raleigh, N. C. has an unusual past. Tomcat Brewing opened in 1996 at the Big Boss location. It lasted until 1999 when Pale Ale Brewing took over. This brewery was followed by Rock Creek Brewing in 2001. Two years later Rock Creek gave way to Chesapeake Bay Brewing. They made it three years until 2006 when Big Boss Brewing took over the operation and they are going strong 10 years later. (If you come to JFO next year you can check the brewery out).

38th JFO Convention Baltimore, Maryland April 20-24

For the first time in a few years the dogs would be going along to JFO. With their requirements and all of the boxes of openers I had the Expedition packed full. A small opening to see out the back and as usual instead of leaving at 10AM it was after 11AM before we were on the road. The trip up was pretty uneventful and the Stanleys arrived at the Hampton Inn BWI about 6PM. After getting one room with toilet problems we moved into 237 which was near the back door of the hotel. The girls did like the short walk to get outside.

A few JFO members had already arrived with the Eblens being in town since Saturday to do sightseeing. I decided to unload everything into our room and after doing that checked out the meeting room. It was easy to see that space would be tight. I did manage to lay out one table for the ladies then an outer U-Shape with two small U-Shapes inside to the outer U. It did create a small walking isle but we survived four days in tight quarters.

The hotel staff had set up the room somewhat but for tonight's early dealing we would be ready to go. Early on I sold belt buckles to Scott Williams and Darvin Stilwell. It was time to split that collection up. Too many and too heavy to lug around. About two-thirds of my boxes contained openers and corkscrews from Harold Queen's collection. I had visited Ben and Cornelia Hoffman two weeks before and then we visited Boots Queen. I pretty much cleared all of his remaining openers out. A lot of low end and common stuff so some discount selling was in store.

Bill Arber bought some of Harold's wall mount and brass muddlers. Art Santen bought some Budweiser openers (of course) and was very kind enough to sell me a C-1-7 Budweiser out of his collection (I now have 9 of the 10 known C-1s). The convention was starting off right. Pat Stambaugh had brought some nice openers for sale and I bought a couple of miscellaneous non-beer ones. By 10PM everyone had turned in and we would do it again on Wednesday.

Wednesday morning I was up early to try and get the tables laid out with maximum numbers in the meeting room. We were short four six foot tables and it took until lunch time but the hotel came through. Tommy Campnell arrived mid-morning and we quickly got into dealing corkscrews. I had four small tubs of mostly Harold Queen's corkscrews. Tommy first picked out the ones he wanted and I said what about buying everything. He said Ok and offered $800 and I was at $1,500. It was quick negotiations and we settled on $1,100 for about 150 corkscrews (a lot of common stuff but some good ones also).

Later on the Eblens guided me to the beer store as Pat had made a snack and supply run. We loaded up on beer and Marcia got a few bottles of wine. Now we could say the convention had officially started. That afternoon Don and Carolyn Lawhorn arrived and he brought several Riker mounts of nice openers. We first dealt on my D-1, D-3, and D-12 Cast iron openers. He bought nine and Scott bought seven more. Darvin passed on three more as I had them priced high (just ask Gary about my pricing).

Actually the convention starts when the Canadians arrive. Mike and Theresa St. Amand and John and Mary Lynn had driven down and were attending even though the Canadian dollar is way down versus the American dollar. You would think after ten years I would know they do not prefer IPA beer which I had bought quite a bit. My apologies and we will make it right in the future.

They were followed in by Gary Deachman and Rick and Darlene Atwood. Gary had brought his spinner openers (A-20s and B-23s) to sell. I bought a couple and he bought some micro openers. Later that evening Don Lawhorn bought round two as I was splitting up my F-9s Ice Picks and he needed three along with one with no opener and an I-7 Malt-Diastase. He kept complaining I was breaking his bank. He got some nice openers. I did buy an E-7-UL Crown Brewing from Cincinnati from Don to make a small dent in his spending.

Wednesday evening was a lot of looking and talking and action at the ladies table was going strong. About half of the attendees had checked in. Buying and selling was going strong and a lot of happy faces could be found. On a side note my stomach doctor had ordered me on a puree diet until I got back home so sweet Pat was blending each meal into soup. I certainly could not survive without her.

Thursday was more dealing and most everyone else arrived. It was good day for selling as Harold's box of O-5 new Starr went to Mike St. Amand and a big box of foreign and miscellaneous Starr went to Bill Arber. Darvin bought a box of mostly no ad M-19 brass muddlers and the car load was getting lighter quickly. Then the life of the party showed up, Stan Summers, and he was hanging out with Jim Kaiser. Stan set up across from me and besides his general opener collection had brought his Michigan collection to sell. I bought a few Michigan openers and he mentioned something about maybe selling everything. The problem was the good stuff was going fast. I told him I would come up with an offer.

Ernie Thoms had brought several hundred openers to sell and most were neatly packaged. He did a brisk business and I spent close to $300 with him. Then Sandra Emme brought some openers from an old display and I had to spend money with her. With Stan's collection staring at me I was bleeding money fast.

That afternoon the one trip we had planned was to the Heavy Seas Micro Brewery which was about four miles from the hotel. About 25 went and we arrived at 4PM. Let's say there is nothing micro about the size. Heavy Seas is a big operation. We received an excellent guided tour from Fred. Stan and some of the ladies stayed at the bar drinking and once the guided tour was finished you could buy samples so most everyone joined in. Heavy Seas has a pewter opener available along with a wooden mallet opener for cracking crabs open. Art Santen scored a new blade style (C-49) opener from the manager who had only the prototype example.

Back at the hotel Thursday evening was loud and fun as everyone enjoyed hearing the ladies talk and laugh. Jeb Burruss had arrived that afternoon and I worked a deal on a couple of special Texas items, a F-32-5 New Braunfels and a F-9 (no opener) Spoetzel Brewing ice pick. They were not cheap but Jeb was happy to take them back to Texas. Buying and selling was going on everywhere and we closed day two with a bunch of happy faces. Just to comment, the dogs never adjusted to traveling and it was a long week for them. Most nights I turned in by midnight and was up by 6:30.

Friday would be all day in the meeting room and late in the morning Ben and Cornelia Hoffman arrived and were driven in by their daughter Marlene Grow and her companion Gary Latshaw. Gary quickly became our ice man. Ben had a nice selection of micro openers and sold many of them pretty quickly. Action continued through the day as everyone awaited the 4PM auction. For the auction I said it was time to really put some good items in. The three pieces I entered were a Harley-Davidson motorcycle spinner, an A-40-1 Inland and a flat figural Chevrolet car and tree.

We only had 14 lots and the usual auctioneers were Jeb Burruss and Gary Deachman. With Stan Summers sitting front and center this would be a memorable auction. We opened the auction with an A-23-3 Diamond State and it sold for $25. Then the Harley-Davidson opener was up next. Bidding started at $50 and quickly got to $200 when it seemed to stall out. Mike Hinton was the leader and then Don Lawhorn jumped in. It moved to $300 and then $5 at a time to $345 when Don dropped out and Mike was the happy winner. Of course I said sold. Then the next opener was the A-40-1 Inland went cheap at $125 but since it was Gary I said sold. The Chevrolet car never got past $50 and was passed.

The rest of the auction items usually saw Jeb or Gary trying to get a $5 opening bid and Stan Summers jumping in at $3 to start the auction. Jeb and Gary sometimes had trouble tracking bids as Stan would say he bid and then say he did not bid. On one item Stan went big at $10 and then promptly raised his own bid to $11. Everyone was laughing and we all had a good time. Nine of the 14 items sold and we got a lot of good memories.

Friday night most of the action was with Stan's table as word got around he may be selling out. Being near the ladies table he heard them talking about my health condition not being the best and said he wanted to sell right then before I died on him. In the end he wanted to sleep on it one more night but I knew he just wanted to keep selling. Unlike the early days of JFO the hospitality room winds down by 10PM. I did get the meeting room ready for displays for the next day's show.

Saturday morning I managed to get in the meeting room, do the morning drink ice run and have it ready for displays. We had six general displays and five displays in the Bill McKenzie Best of Show category. A few walk-ins came by including JFO member Steve Weaver. Before voting on the display at 10AM, Stan and Jim Kaiser came down and said they were heading out. Stan said he would take my offer of $1,800 for his collection. We closed the deal and I started bagging his openers up. He left cases and all, but I did let him keep his one local opener, an A-20-53 Kulmbacher (a Detroit restaurant that Stan still frequents).

Displays arrived early and by 10AM the votes were in. Third place went to Darvin Stilwell for his "Slider Opener" display. Sandra Emme won second place with her "Maryland Opener" display. Rick Atwood won first place with very colorful "G-9 Wooden Handle Opener" display. The "Bill McKenzie Best of Show" award went to John Eblen for his rare Starr "Long Neck" opener advertising "Carta Blanca". With attached literature is was a very nice looking display. Thank you to everyone who entered the contest.

By noon more people were heading home but we did have 26 stay over for the Saturday night group supper. Since we had the room the rest of the afternoon I made a few last minute sales and the last being to hard-nosed dealing Dave Pinney. He had a F-16-5 corkscrew on his want list (he just wanted the type) and I had one available. It was $150 when we started on Wednesday but Dave was persistent in offering $100. He finally went up to $110 Saturday afternoon and I said $125 was the bottom dollar. He grudgingly gave in and paid the $125 but only after asking for a third time if $110 would buy it. He is tough dealing with. Don Lawhorn commented he had worn him out dealing at this show. But then that is how Dave has a nice collection at a “reasonable” price.

The remaining folks packed up and Pat Stanley worked on a car list as she had found a restaurant about six miles away that would take our group of 26. Timbuktu had a broad selection of food so everyone would be happy and we would be seated at one large table.

We needed to leave at 4:30 for the 5:30 meal but at 3PM my hotel sales person wanted to know when we would be out of the room as they had an event in the room early the next morning. I told her we usually stay until 10 or 11 on Saturday night winding things down. At first she wanted us out by 6 and then changed it to 9. We could make it work but I hated ending the convention this way. I agreed but then Pat Stanley went into her office, told her we were unhappy and turned around and stormed out.

Shortly thereafter the sales person said she would comp us a nice board room on the fifth floor for use that evening. Thank you Pat as it was real nice. We just had to bring up extra chairs but it worked out really well. At 4:30 the caravan headed to Timbuktu and it was only a 15 minute trip in traffic. We had to wait a few minutes but we got seated, had two great servers and the food was really good. Yes they did take my filet steak and baked potato and ground it up in the blender. It looked as Pat said like a cow pile (or a ground up hot dog) but tasted pretty good.

It was noisy in the restaurant but we had a good time and the real fun came when it was time to pay the bill. They did not do separate checks so the waitress printed off several copies of the entire bill and you just circled what you had, added it up yourself, add in 18% for tip, 6% for tax and bingo you had your total amount. You could pay by either cash or credit card. Most people paid by cash before we found out about the “gotcha”.

Tommy and Jeb were paying last with their credit cards and just ahead of them was Theresa St. Amand and she was the fifth credit card payment. The waitress says we cannot process more than five credit cards on one bill (?????). Jeb and Tommy took several minutes to straighten out payment with the antiquated system.

We got back to our new hospitality room by 8PM and most everyone appeared. We had a lot of laughs and reminiscing about the convention and people started leaving with Jeb, Tommy and Don being the last at 10:30. I just had to figure out where we would be going next year. On the trip home we stopped at Larry Moter’s farm near Fredericksburg to drop some books off and let Pat be attacked by swarms of gnats. We were back in Durham by 5PM. Another great JFO had concluded.

Subsequent tests on my stomach showed no problems. I just need to eat slow and smaller meals. One side benefit was for breakfast I found out I did like the food pureed and have been doing that every morning. Sometimes you never know until you try something if you really will like it. I have slowly adapted to the smaller meals most of the time but eating slowly is always a challenge. Start making plans for next year’s convention at the Hampton Inn in Chapel Hill, N. C. The Stanleys promise great hospitality, a great time, and just might be a few great openers available. Make Chapel Hill your next JFO Convention stop.

Sometimes You Miss Out on a Good Opener, The Lime Cola Story By John Eblen

A few years ago on eBay John Stanley sold an O-505 Lime Cola for a Buy-It-Now of $750.00. I could not bring myself to pay that much and regretted it ever since. I finally got in touch with the buyer recently and the story follows: When I get a lead I will dog it until there is some sort of closure. Remember the original email John Stanley sent me three years ago. I had sent the buyer two letters over the 4 years, one never came back and a recent one did. I felt lucky so I went ahead and looked him up on the web for a possible phone number. Got lucky on the third number I tried. Yep, he said it was for a customer restoring a Lime Cola machine. Left a I'll buy it from him. Nice fellow to talk with. I appreciate you sending the information to me back then. Sorry I missed this one from you on 1/16/2012.....dam!

“Opener and eBay Trivia” (“BIN” Buy-It-Now & “DNMR” Did Not Meet Reserve)

The last six months for this issue will be forever known as the “Fabulous Bob Stahly Collection” that was sold on eBay. For any opener collector Bob proved that “painted openers” (“B-2”s, “M-1”s, “M-2”s, “M-3”s, “O-2”s and “O-6”s) bring high prices and see lots of bidding. Bob is one of the old time JFO members and amassed a truly great collection. He is keeping his regular Starr openers but everything else was offered on eBay.

Last August I got an email from Bob wanting to know if I was driving to the BCCA Convention in Milwaukee. He wanted me to stop by and pick up his openers for me to sell on eBay. I told him I was flying and a couple of weeks later Bob started listing on eBay. The rest is history. Once he got to the painted openers it was one home run after another. It just proves that great stuff is still in high demand.

Bob has been very surprised how well his openers sold.

His pictures were OK, but he cannot spell, his listing had a minimal description, JFO numbers did not match on many openers, and shipping packaging was very basic. Bob never had a return and everything made it to its correct location. Again great stuff can overcome any obstacles. Congratulations Bob on a fun six months on eBay. 6PM everyday was go time. If I bid $200 it went for $300 most times and at best I was a runner-up though I got a few low end openers (I did buy his C-1 collection).

Now that Bob has shot most of his firewroks off, eBay looks like a ghost town. Good openers are few and far between but the occasional gem does turn up. You have to check everyday and be persistent. Good corkscrews are also scarce as the ICCA keeps dominating the market and then someone named Don Bull has been selling his collection. A big thank you to Don for offering many super corkscrews. All you have to do it get your checkbook out and be ready to spend some money.

The collage contains three main images. On the left is a Harley-Davidson motorcycle spinner with a damaged screwdriver end. In the center is a rusted P-35 barmount corkscrew. On the right is a screenshot of an eBay listing for a 'Vtg Antique Cleveland Faucet Co Beer Tap? Barrel Valve Bar Farm Pump ? CAST IRON'. The listing shows a winning bid of US $43.99 and includes a photo of the item.

Above is a P-35 barmount corkscrew I bought on eBay and the seller claimed it was just a “farm implement” and did not know it was a corkscrew because it is totally rusted. Oh well.

The collage contains three main images. On the left is a Haehle beer key with 'DRINK HAEHLE BEER' and 'MADE IN GERMANY' inscribed on it. In the center is a wall mount corkscrew/cap lifter marked 'PAT. APP FOR BOSTON MASS. ROBERTS SPEC. MFG CO.' with a ruler for scale. On the right is another Roberts wall mount corkscrew/cap lifter, also marked 'PAT. APP FOR BOSTON MASS. ROBERTS SPEC. MFG CO.'.

Top: Harley-Davidson motorcycle spinner with a damaged screwdriver end that still brought $950 (add 22% buyer’s premium) at an Iowa auction. L-2-27 C. Maus from Indianapolis now in the Norm Jay collection (sold by Bull). Above: B-22-UL Haehle submitted by Greg Haehle. Right: “Roberts” wall mount now in the John Morris Collection (sold by Bull).

WM01 Wall mount corkscrew/cap lifter marked PAT. APP. FOR BOSTON MASS ROBERTS SPEC MFG CO. $375

O-004-999	Pepsi=Cola 5c	6	$199.50	High	1	A top price for an O-4 Never Chip wall mount but Pepsi=Cola is very desirable in this style (BS)
O-005-999	Beaufont Ginger Ale	6	$609.99	High	1	Don Stinson struck pay dirt with this sale, one of the really tough O-5 Starr openers to find
O-505-999	Icy-O	8	$606.00	Crazy	2	Bob Stahly hit the mother lode with this sale and the amazing part was someone else was selling a repro of this opener and got $100, it is a desirable opener for soda machine collectors
O-999-999	Starr Flight Malted Milk (Oversized O-5)	6	$338.00	Average	2	The Bob Stahly bonanza continued again a very tough Starr style to find
P-019-999	Kentucky Home Saloon Walla Walla WA	8	$230.27	High	1	A saloon opener from the state of Washington and bidding really went crazy, neat advertising with Kentucky and Walla Wall on the same piece
P-026-011	Anheuser-Busch (Pearl Handles)	8	$479.44	Average	2	The endless supply of Anheuser-Busch knives never ends but when they are in nice condition, the bidding goes well, an average bid on this one
Z-Corkscrew	English 19thC Rotary Elclipse Bar-mount	8	$1,100.00	Crazy	3	Many years ago, this was the going price, now the Rotary Eclipse bar mount brings $300-$500, someone was hot after this one
Z-Corkscrew	US 1892 Columbian Expo Figural (Best Offer)	8	$325.00	Low to Average	2	I always liked this little figural corkscrew and the seller was asking $500 or Best Offer, I offered $325 and got the corkscrew
Z-Corkscrew	US 19thC Will & Finck Bone T-Handle	8	$918.88	High	2	Any old San Francisco maker corkscrews are desirable and this seemed high but a nice item
Z-Corkscrew	US 20thC Syroco Golden Knight	8	$1,714.75	Average	2	One time a $2000-$2500 corkscrew but the price keeps slipping as more and more turn up
